J. G. Wildman of Biston writes us he will be unable to come here on his annual shooting trip. He has been in hunting woodcock and partridge. His health will not permit it. His doctor forbids his coming and he must abide by his decision.

Mrs. Agnes Kelley spent several days last week at her sister-in-law's, Mrs. Fannie Frost's home on Paris street, Saturday, Oct. 5th, being Mrs. Kelley's birthday, she was remembered by her many friends with a shower of over one hundred post cards. She also received a number of pretty and useful presents, and in the evening a surprise call from several relatives.

The oyster supper given by Mrs. Mand Merrill and Mrs. Nettie Nevers at the Norway Cafe, Tuesday evening, was not largely attended. An excellent oyster stew, pickles, cake, coffee and doughnuts were served. The supper was given by Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Nevers to increase their quarter for the ladies' circle of the Congregational church. They were assisted by Mrs. Bertram Goldthwaite and Mrs. Fred Moore waitresses.

Three men were brought before Trial Justice C. F. Whitman, Friday, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. The men were taking subscriptions for an alleged magazine, cash in advance, and giving fountain pens as premiums, which proved to be worthless. The three men were working together, the better to deceive the people. The judge imposed a fine of $5 and costs on each, which were paid.

Mrs. R. L. Wiers and the members of her store force gave a delightful little party Tuesday evening at Mrs. Fowers home on Deering street to Mrs. L. C. Smiley, the milliner at South Paris, her designer, Cora M. Gossell and Mrs. Fred Wiggin her maker. The evening was spent in a social way with music, both vocal and instrumental and glimpses into the hidden future by the method popularly known as "fortune telling." Light refreshments were served.

"The Town Marshal."

O. E. Wee, the enterprising young producing manager, has a decided novelty this season in his new three act comedy, "The Town Marshal," which will be seen at the Opera House on October 10, 1912.

The play was seen last season in all the principal cities and made a splendid impression. The story is human throughout, the dialogue right up to the minute and the characters are cleverly drawn. The story bears the stamp of originality and fairly sparkles with clever moments. Lunt Lytton, a young actor whose work is already well known, is featured in the leading role. His portrayal of this role is favorably remembered by local audiences. He is said to have a big opportunity in Mr. Wee's latest offering. The cast has been chosen with great care and the settings will be in perfect keeping with this novel attraction. Adv.

Tuesday afternoon was devoted to the hearing of the case of the Whitman & Pratt Rendering Co., of Lowell, Mass., vs. Lewis M. Mann et al. of Sumner.

Walker L. Gray was attorney for the Rendering Company and James S. Wright for Mr. Mann.

The case was for a bill of fertilizer amounting to $243.93, which was purchased on the 3d of May 1911 by letter under contract which stated that the goods would be shipped immediately. It was found that the goods which were shipped about the 10th of May did not arrive at Bryant Pond until the first of June and it was claimed by the plaintiff that he sustained a severe loss on account of the lateness in the arrival of the fertilizer.

In the meantime Mr. Mann had telegraphed to the Fertilizer Company concerning the goods, and in return was told that they had been shipped and he had his potatoes ready for planting. As the fertilizer did not come until the first of June the seed which he had out was spoiled. Mr. Mann planted four acres of corn, four of potatoes and four of beans, and it was estimated that the corn crop was fairly good except that on account of the frost he lost his fodder corn. The potatoes were a little over 300 bushels and the beans were very poor, and it is claimed that the loss caused by the delay in the shipment of the fertilizer more than covered the sum of the bill served, and Mr. Mann refused to pay the bill.

The defendant company claimed that the goods were shipped according to the course of orders and left the factory in the middle of May, and they do not feel that they are to blame because of the early frost which injured the beans and corn. (Continued on page 4).

Norway & South Paris Telephone Exchange.

Owing to the highly satisfactory manner in which the Norway & South Paris Exchange of the Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. has been conducted during the past year there has been a large increase in subscribers and many changes from party to special and two party line services.

Forty regular contract subscribers have been connected to the exchange and twenty have changed from party line to the better grades of service.

In order to provide the necessary plant facilities for this increased patronage, the Telephone Company has just hung a 60 pair cable on Main and East street for distance of 3500 feet. This new cable has been cut through to South Paris from that point over the existing cable, thus making an entire 60 pair cable available for use in South Paris and also relieving the existing Norway cable of the South Paris line.

Satisfactory telephone service is largely dependent upon the number of special and two party lines in service and this new construction makes it possible for the company to care for all applicants for a higher grade of service, as well as the natural increase of the Exchange for several years to come.

This corporation, doing everything possible to make its construction conform to expert engineering specifications and it is also planning to note the pole line on the main business thoroughfare of the village has recently been painted thereby very much improving the general appearance of the street.

Graceful Burglars.

Of all the weird sounds that causes a man's hair to stand straight, are the sounds of burglars at dark night, and such was the experience of Freeeland Howe, Jr., last Friday night.

About 10 o'clock Mr. Howe went into his bathroom at his home on Pleasant street and soon heard strange sounds as if someone was prowling around his house. He immediately seized his rifle and started for the north attic window. There he called to the burglars, requesting their name but received no reply. He discharged his rifle several times in different directions but still failed to procure response. With still increasing he told Mrs. Howe to call W. A. Bicknell at once and he returned to his station at the attic window.

Over the line to Mr. Bicknell who at that time was unable to leave the house as his family were out except the little girl, so Mr. Bicknell rushed to the street and met Bert Hutchins and Richard Lasselle and related to them the situation and requested them to hunt up the night policeman, Hiram Wiles, and inform him.

The policeman found, the three set out for the Howe residence. There they found Mr. Howe still stationed at the attic window. He told them that he had not fired as they were coming to his rescue and on being asked where the burglars were, Mr. Howe told them they were down there in the corn and some one else over in the field. The three started and the dead run for the corn field, and hearing faint sound threw the flash light into the corn and there, the intruding burglar was found, in the person of two handsome deer serenely browsing in the cornfield.

The three then went to the house and induced Mr. Howe to come down from the attic and assured him that there were no burglars about the place and the noises he heard were only the sound of several deer.

Norway Board of Trade.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

No. XXI.

But I must hurry on or my story will never end. At the old Russell home I found uncle Dean contented and happy occupying the shady porch, which his sister Blanche and her four bright children shared with him. Blanche's husband, Mr. Dalgren, is a noted lawyer living in Massachusetts. He and three others own Rattlesnake Island at the head of Lake Kezar and are fixing it up for an ideal private park and pleasure grounds, and each summer he brings his family to the Russell home where they can breathe the fragrance of the new mown hay, gather luxuriant fruit and lovely flowers from the nearby fields and woodland, and enjoy to the full the grand view of mountain, lake and valley that is to be found in this beauty spot of a section that has been truthfully called the Switzerland of America.

Continuing my quest on up the old Sabatos road I tarried for a little while and wandered over the old farm which for some 19 years had been my home. The old road leading to the house, 44 rods in length as I well remember, has been discontinued and is growing up to trees and brush. The old farm house long vacant has been torn down and pine trees, some of them more than two feet in diameter now stand where I as a boy and young man once swung that arm-strong mower, the scythe.

I climbed Blueberry knoll, visited the old fishing hole, wandered through the old orchard, climbed the big rock where I used to sit in the shade of the Elm of Gilead tree, long since dead, where I sat down and for a little while and dreamed of the forgotten past.

As we pass on up the road past the old Uncle Gideon Andrews house we will stop and visit for a little while at the pleasant home of William Stanford. His wife, nee Mary Russell, was one of my younger schoolmates. He is a veteran of the Civil War and a carpenter by trade. They have four children, all of whom are grown up. Charles the youngest is the only one living at home. He is a bright young man and is a school teacher.

At the Elwell Andrews home I enjoyed a pleasant visit with him and his elder brother Sumner, who was down from his Massachusetts home on a visit. Elwell was twice married, first to Lucy Martin, a girl from Fryeburg, who died many years ago, and second to Marcia Walker of Fryeburg, who died a few years ago, leaving him almost alone. He has one child, Elmer, who is married and lives a few miles away.

Elwell is the youngest of eleven children, five of whom are now living. They are besides himself, Charles, Sumner, Orin and Otis. His farm may well be called the old homestead farm of the Andrews.

Capt. Samuel Andrews settled here some 120 years ago. His wife I well remember. She died here in 1871 aged 102 years. She has been blind many years. They were the parents of 13 children, most of whom grew up, married and settled within a few miles of the parental home; and today many of their descendants may be found amongst old Oxford county's hills and valleys, and wherever found they are citizens of good repute, and an honor to their town, county and state.

He succeeded on the farm by his son Stephen, and he in turn by his grandson Elwell, the present owner. The spot where the original house stood is still pointed out.

I well remember two incidents that occurred here when I was a boy. One of them an old-fashioned husking bee, at which a large crowd of boys and girls, both old and young, gathered around a big pile of corn stacked on the barn floor and with much talk and laughter and many a song, husked until the last ear was husked, then all repaired to the house where a warm supper was served, after which games were played until a late hour when the merry crowd dispersed and returned to their various homes.

The other event was almost a tragedy. A two-horse tread-power threshing machine was threshing in the barn floor. They were to thresh at our place next and I had been sent to see when we could expect to have the machine. I was standing in the cattle tie-up just opposite to the machine when the belt flew off the big speed wheel and in an instant there was a wild runaway of the horses traveling upon the revolving platform.

Virgil Andrews, a boy about my own age, was cutting bands, and Fred Kimball, one of the owners, was feeding; the long break to stop the machine by gentle pressure on the big speed wheel was failing. The horse was placed on the platform. The horse was caught hold of the break and bore down with all his might without removing the pin.

Then Fred caught hold and bore down on the break until the pin gave way; then something happened, and the wheel which was going at lightning speed, flew into a hundred pieces. One large section of it flew through the air and landed more than a hundred feet away, while the man and boy went in a heap on the floor. The horse was finally stopped by some one running a handspike under the endless platform, but not until one horse had broken his hold-back rope and the crossbar behind and had been dumped out behind. Virgil's arm was broken and he was taken to the house and a doctor sent for.

Continuing our way up hill along the winding road we pass the old Kimball-Smith farm, first owned and old by the father of Deacon Stearns; then on past the old ancestral home where Capt. Abraham Andrews settled in 1787, and where Uncle Isaac Andrews, the first child in Lovell was born on Aug. 13, 1788. On this rough and rocky farm he settled about 1797, and by hard work and industry built a home and reared seven children, two of whom died in young man and young womanhood. The other five children all grew up and settled in Lovell and raised up large families of children; and today, to my knowledge, their descendants may be found living in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Texas, New Mexico, Missouri, Washington, Oregon, California and Virginia.

A painting of the little hamlet of perhaps a dozen families taken about 1790 would be of priceless value to their descendants of today. It would include Captains Abraham and Samuel Andrews and Benjamin Stearns, close neighbors on the Sabatos road; and John Stearns and Josiah Field at the Center. The whole country was one vast forest with here and there a little clearing made by these hardy pioneers; the only roads being paths or trails leading from one clearing to another; the nearest mill or trading point 12 miles away; and their dwellings rude log houses cut from the nearby forests and hewed out by hand with the ever handy broad axe.

Parsons' Pills

I imagine that there was not much gadding about by the women folks in those days, for while the men were busy clearing the land, and planting, tending and harvesting their little patches of hard ground of corn, wheat, rye, beans and potatoes, the women were busy with their spinning and weaving and the making of home-made garments and foot wear, the baking of rye and Indian bread Johnny cake, pumpkin pies and caring for the little ones.

There was no race suicide in those days, and the high cost of living was not the problem that it is today.

I imagine that my grandfather Andrews was something of a social center for the first few years after the settlement started, for he had three bright daughters and a son, who were fast growing up and were soon to be social leaders in the little colony. Between 1797 and 1805 they were all married and settled within a few miles of each other and the farthest not more than six miles from their father's old homestead farm and each on a homestead of their own.

I can imagine father as a big school boy, attending school in the plain old schoolhouse at the Center, casting his glances at pretty Hannah Barker and on various occasions bearing her home from evening church service, singing school or social entertainment, to her home on Barker's hill. I think too that he must have been quite dignified even in his younger days for I have heard my mother say that in his old age he stood as straight as an arrow and walked with an almost boyish step.

Now while Abraham was casting his glances at the Barker girl, there were those smart and stylish young men, (afterwards captains of militia I suppose) Stephen Barker and Stephen Heald, and the plain farmer lad David Stearns, who must have been frequent callers at the Andrews home, attracted thither by the grace and beauty of the three young daughters, Betsy, Esther and Sally, who were destined to be their future helpmates and partners along life's rugged pathway.

On muster day, or other great occasions when the young men were supposed to take their best girls out in style, I can imagine these four young men dressed in homespun and mounted on a prancing steed with their sweethearts seated behind them on a pillion riding gaily forward to the place of meeting and as they followed the winding bridge paths through the deep and shady woods making the forest echo ring with their gay and joyous song and laughter.

REAL PROOFS

From a Doctor
"The three patients... who went to your Institute no longer exhibit any signs of the inebriate but are entirely freed from the fetters that held them so long in slavery."

A well-known Portland House Painter
"In the case of one of my employees who some time ago went under treatment at your Institute... his appetite for alcoholic liquor has been entirely eradicated and his general health much improved."

From a Portland Coal and Wood Dealer
"The first of last December, I took on a man that proved to be a very hard drinker and was looking for a man to take his place when he decided to take your cure. Now he is a good, sober, industrious man and sure of his position."

A Thomaston Man says:
"I am delighted to say that I am feeling finely, sleep and eat well and have put on 25 pounds of flesh. Cannot even stand the smell of alcohol and the sight of an ale bottle arouses most unpleasant feelings."

Treasurer of a Large Dry Goods House
"The young man in our employ who took your treatment some time ago... has not lost a day since he commenced work. This would certainly indicate that he is permanently cured."

Supt. of big Portland Manufacturing Firm
"The man we sent to your Institute for treatment for the liquor habit has been at work every day since taking your cure, and appears perfectly cured and well rid of his desire for liquor. Feels that he will never take liquor again."

WEST PARIS.

Pell Twenty-Two Feet.
Thursday afternoon, O. C. Dearborn, who was helping repair Dunham's Hall for the Finnish church, had the misfortune to lose his foothold when nearly at the top of 10 ft and rolled to the eaves from where he fell a distance of 22 feet, and strange to say broke no bones.

He was badly bruised and shaken up and unconscious ever since. He is up and about the house but has to be constantly watched and cared for both night and day.

Mr. Dearborn lives on the Roscoe Tuell farm, about half way from here to Trap Corner, which he bought two or three years ago. He is said to be 75 years old, rather stout and quite strong physically for one of his age, a carpenter by trade. It was very strange that he was not killed outright.

Mrs. I. F. Emmons recently visited her daughter Bertha in Portland for a few days.

Mrs. F. S. Farnum has Flora Smith of Bryant's Pond helping in her millinery work this fall.

Mrs. Harold Gerrish and daughter Elva of Portland are visiting her mother, Mrs. Elva E. Locke.

Rev. D. A. Ball spent last week Wednesday at Mechanic Falls, visiting former parishioners.

Dr. F. H. Packard of South Paris was here first of the week picking his apples and on other business.

Mrs. F. H. Hill and family received a visit first of the week from her brother, Frank Packard, wife and son.

Mrs. Winton S. Oliver of Gardiner visited her sister, Rose Murphy, at J. R. Tucker's last week Thursday and Friday.

About 45 members of Granite Chapter, O. E. S., No. 115, visited the Buckfield Chapter last Friday evening. They were conveyed in nine automobiles and had a very pleasant time.

Charles Herriek and family have moved from one of Adna Tuell's rents to the upstairs rent in Mrs. Mooney's old house, so as to be nearer his work which is on the R. R. section.

The ladies' aid of the M. E. church are carrying forward their plans for their annual sale, Harvest dinner and supper and entertainment to be held Oct. 22, as announced a month or so ago.

Mrs. D. A. Ball, Mrs. L. O. Bates, Della E. Lane, Mrs. C. E. Chase and Mrs. Clara Ridlon attended the district meeting of the Universalist Mission circles held last week at South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Auverne Lapham and Mrs. Lois Sweet of South Paris were up Sunday to see their mother, Mrs. Nelson Lapham, who is still quite sick. Mrs. Bert Lang's mother, Mrs. Cole, is taking care of her.

The teachers' training class will meet on Monday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with Rev. D. A. Ball and wife. The newly organized class, Rev. D. A. Ball, teacher, will meet until further notice with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mann, Monday evening at 7.30.

Mrs. D. P. Curtis is quite ill again. Mrs. E. D. Curtis' mother, Mrs. Herbert Fuller, happened to arrive for a visit the day that the elder Mrs. Curtis was taken sick and so she has remained to help her daughter with the work and the nursing.

Rev. D. W. Raymond and daughter Effie returned from Ocean Park last Saturday for the winter. Mr. Raymond gains slowly. He was in his place Sunday morning and went to North Paris in the afternoon but was not able to come out in the evening, and an interesting praise and prayer service was held without a leader.

The annual meeting of the Good Will society was held last week Wednesday evening at the Universalist church and the following officers were elected:

Pres.—Mrs. Ella M. Bates.
V. Pres.—Mrs. Mildred F. Davis.
Sec.—Mrs. Mattie M. Moore.
Treas.—Mrs. Annie Wheeler.

The date for their annual sale and chicken pie supper and entertainment was set for Nov. 20.

A Roosevelt club was organized at Centennial hall last week with the following officers:

Pres.—R. L. Cummings.
V. Pres.—C. H. Lane, Jr., L. H. Penley, C. E. Chase, E. B. Berry, P. C. Fickett.
Sec.—Mrs. W. H. Barker.

The D. A. Q. club are rehearsing for a drama and making plans for a sale of aprons, fancy articles, food and candy which they will give in the near future. The cast of characters for the drama which is entitled, The Brookdale Fair are as follows:

Squire Brooks, owner of Brookdale farm.....
Ben Haley, proprietor of Placer Hotel.....
Roy Harris, a young farmer.....
Gilbert Dawson, Mrs. Brooks' nephew.....
Samuel Hunter, a sheriff of Spring County.....
Abner Mann, a brakeman.....
Mrs. Brooks, the Squire's wife.....
Mrs. Georgia Estes, Marion Brooks, their daughter.....
Mrs. Della Penley, Nan Cummings, an adopted child.....
Mrs. Leona Ridlon, villagers and miners.....

A dance will follow.

"The World's Fair."

The World's Fair, which holds a place in the memory of many thousands of people, was held at the cross roads at North Waterford, Friday and Saturday. The weather was the finest of the season, two beautiful, summer-like days, and a great many people for miles around were in attendance. Automobiles were nearly as plenty as horses, and it was estimated there were as many as 3,000 people in attendance, Saturday.

The exhibition of vegetables, canned goods and fancy work was displayed in the schoolhouse. Among the exhibitors was Charles L. Stearns, Hoghorn potatoes; Late Queen, John H. Kimball; Max Cummings, Charles L. Chaplin; Strawberry potatoes, Ogden Kimball; two lots, Stanley potatoes, Ogden Kimball; prize potatoes, R. M. McKean; Hubbard squash, R. M. McKean; New York squash, R. M. McKean and C. P. Saunders; crook neck squash, Silas A. Stearns.

A fine full table was exhibited by Mrs. Jennie McAllister, which included: large pumpkin, squash, crook neck squash, summer squash, cabbage, beets, Swiss chard, peppers, turnips, carrots, grapes, cauliflower, potatoes, 17 jars canned berries, fruit and vegetables; also fancy work including embroidered doily, necktie case and button scarf.

Among the other fancy work exhibited were two white crocheted dollies, fancy embroidered mat and napkin ring, Mrs. L. F. McIntire; drawn mat, two embroidered dollies, Kathleen McAllister; fancy colored crocheted plinks, Mrs. C. P. Sawin; crocheted and drawn-work handkerchief, drawn-work and lace corset cover, embroidered towels, Mrs. Fred McAllister; embroidered silk doily, crocheted tidy, Catherine Saunders; apron with knitted lace, three crocheted dollies, large Battenburg table cover, Mrs. W. D. Moulton.

Miss E. B. Hamlin exhibited a gourd which grew in the south, and an Egyptian bottle.

Mrs. Sarah Perkins, aged 70, exhibited a handsome braided rug; George O. Hobson; large braided rug, Mrs. H. B. Herr. Lydia F. Lord exhibited 25 cans jelly, 75 cans vegetables, fruit and berries of all kinds, which occupied one table and made a fine showing. Two summer turnips, two winter turnips, R. M. McKean; home-made cheese, Mrs. Austin Hutchins; four cans crabapple jelly, Vera Rice.

Apples were exhibited by E. B. Hersey and included Tominas Reds, King of Tompkins, Mackintosh Reds, Stark Wealthy. The apples exhibited by M. M. Hamlin were R. I. Greenings, Grimes pippins, Kluge, Ben Davis, Pewaukee, Baldwin, Williams' Favorites.

Glady's Abbott had a fine exhibit of pencil drawing, also several landscape water color paintings which attracted a lot of attention. Miss Abbott is only 18 years of age.

Mrs. Alice Freelove of Harrison had a large exhibit of fall and winter millinery and was kept busy showing her goods throughout the fair.

Frank McAllister exhibited a quantity of Indian corn; Ogden P. Kimball exhibited a spray of wheat and John F. Shedd a string of onions.

The East Stoneham Congregational church served dinners under a tent on the lot below the Brown house and served baked beans, salads, cheese, coffee and doughnuts. The tent was in charge of Mrs. Melyin Bartlett, Mrs. Charles Bartlett and Mrs. Fernando McAllister.

The ladies of the Congregational church served dinners in the vestry each day and did a rushing business. A crowd was standing at the entrance for several hours to get a dinner.

The scenes up and down the midway were similar to years past, and among the fairs were J. W. Kerrigan of Portland, who sold soft drinks and hot dogs, also a line of fruit, coming here from the Fryburg farm.

D. Dordoin of Bridgton had two booths and sold fruits of all kinds.

Mike Connolly and Leroy E. Davis, both of Portland, sold drinks of all kinds. Mr. Connolly has been at the fair for the past 13 years.

James York of Norway had his game of ten pins.

C. Williams of Bangor came from Farmington and sold hot frankfurts.

William Branz of Portland had his ice cream wagon here and sold ice cream sandwiches.

F. D. Lynch of Boston had a square lot staked off, where all sorts of jewelry was displayed for ring throwing where bracelets were won for your girl, the wedding ring for the sweetheart and the poodle dog for the baby.

"Everybody is doing it" said I. Greenberg of Boston, and they did for many were supporting a handsome gilded parasol or a souvenir.

Livewood Flint of Waterford had his Merry-go-round in its usual place and was one of the greatest centers of attraction of the fair for both old and young but long in the middle of the afternoon Saturday the music ceased to rise above the noise of the fairs and it was found the cable which turned the merry-go-round, had broken so there was no more "joy riding" and the tent was taken down.

Joseph Solari of Bridgton Fruit Market, sold, fruit, confectionery, cigars and tobacco.

John F. Monson of Lewiston sold novelties, rabbits which he manufactured. They were white and by squeezing a bulb would hop to beat the band.

Wm. Franklin of Portland, photographer, was on the grounds taking pictures of individuals and placed them on fancy postcards.

Roscoe G. Cutler, Biddeford had an African dodger. When the lucky one hit the nigger on the head he got the cigar.

The Oxford Bakery, W. K. Perkins, proprietor, was present with his auto delivery wagon and sold pastry, hot frankfurts.

Twitcomb Brothers of Oxford had their team at the fair and sold fruit of all kinds and confectionery.

Deltoria was here, gowned in red and called attention to her tent of palmistry. Here one had his fortune told by Had-Bav the palmist astrologer.

John Frye and Edward Duddy of Lynn, Mass., had a neat Roly-Poly, Japanese rolling box where each roller secured a prize of a purse, a watch, a clock, a pen or some sort of jewelry.

G. W. Kimball of Stark, N. H., who has been at Jackson, for a month, was here. He has attended the Lancaster, N. H., Brattleboro, White River Jct., Vt., St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Fryburg fairs and run his auto for public parties.

George Seeyrd of Windham had a fancy booth decorated with star bunting and sold cold drinks and luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Kimball of Norway were present with his combination watch fob and grip plate and did a good business.

E. C. Powers of Bangor had a tag game. In buying the tags one secured the prize which corresponded to the number, which consisted of watches, clocks and jewelry of all kinds.

G. Pearlman of Boston sold souvenirs of all kinds including jewelry, watch tobs, teddy bears, hat bands, etc.

Harry Butterfield of Brownfield was present. This was Mr. Butterfield's 5th year at the fair. He sold ice cream, frankfurts, cigars and soda.

W. E. Bartlett of Norway had a large variety of fancy fobs, lodge pins, president pictures, etc.

Geo. F. Downing of Norway had a fine display of shoes and a fine business. Mr. Downing has attended the fair for the past ten years.

Max Cummings of Portland has his poodle game which was turning a wheel and winning a souvenir of either a doll, a box or a poodle dog if it stopped on a lucky number.

Doyle of North Leeds has his striking machine, bowling alley and ten pin game.

The Oriental exhibit includes Chinese dragons, Chinese, plum pipes over 100 years old, sacred serpents from India, etc.

Frank McCarty of Boston sold hot dogs and lemonade.

Livewood Flint of Waterford exhibited his Jungle show of animals including a kangaroo, baby bear, red macaw, human ape, South American peccary, Cuban Orang, squirrels, the monkey face owl, etc.

Percy Nevers assisted by Roland Nevers and Clayton, Heath all of Norway, sold peanuts, hot frankfurts, cigars and soft drinks.

Another place of attraction was the I. O. O. F. hall where dancing was in order during the afternoon and evening on both days, with music furnished by Smith's orchestra of Harrison. A large crowd attended.

Cattle.
The cattle on exhibition were hitched to the fence on the west side of the church. Among the exhibitors were J. FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

Every woman ought to have Lydia E. Pinkham's 80-page Text Book. It is not a book for general distribution, as it is too expensive. It is free and only obtainable by mail. Write for it today.

A STONE ROOFING

A good many people say and some people really think that none of the manufactured roofings are durable. Now this is a great mistake. A roofing that is composed of Asbestos and Portland Cement is practically everlasting. If you wish to pay the price, which is not very high either, you can have a roofing that will last as long as the Pyramids. As the philosopher John D. Rockefeller says about Sunday School, "The more you put in, the more you can take out."

J-M Asbestos Roofing is literary a sheet of pilable stone—with the rust-proof, rot-proof, acid-proof and lasting qualities of stone and with the fire-proof quality of Asbestos. And—like all stone—it never needs painting.

We are agents for all grades of H. W. Johns-Manville Co's Asbestos Roofings and can furnish them for any desired price. Call and see the roofings or ask for samples and prices.

Covered Wagon Best Camp.

Vacation in Caravan is Restful, Cheap and Healthful—Go Where You Wish.

There lives in the poorest of New York tenements a man who earns $12 a week, on which he supports a family of four. Every summer for the past four years he has quit his job at the first of May and taken his family out of town for five months. One summer they spent in the Adirondacks, one in the White Mountains, one on the St. Lawrence river along the Thousand Islands, and one, the first of the four, on the shores of Long Island. At each of these places he owned his own house.

Impossible, do you say? Nay, for he was simply one of the Wise Poor, who have reverted to the economical and sensible mode of life which hundreds of thousands of Americans lived in pioneer days—a life in a covered wagon.

The poor man who takes his family out today for a two weeks' jaunt in a covered wagon is doing precisely what the early emigrants did in the youthful years of the nation. The famous "Conestoga wagons" were built to stand the rack of just such travel, and for years it was a familiar sight. Then came the movement to the far west, following the discovery of gold in 1849, and again the endless procession of wagons began its march across the continent. This time it was the prairie "schooner" which won fame as a vehicle. Like the Conestoga wagon it rolled slowly through the virgin land, a humped pioneer driving a team of oxen, the women inside the canvas roof, bare legged children running after it and the inevitable "houn" daws trotting in its shadow.

While the covered caravan may be built to order and furnished with the elegance of a Pullman private car, a cheap wagon may be purchased second-hand and covered with canvas for a sum well within the means of any thrifty wage earner, and the vacation which it affords is of priceless value in its returns of health and pleasure.

Yet, strangely enough, it is not in the United States, where the covered wagon has played so great a part in the building of the nation, but in England that the vacation by means of caravan is in greatest favor. In fact, in this country it is scarcely heard of, while in England thousands of "rangers" spend each summer in the open air in this way, sleeping in blankets on the ground in fair weather and in the cart on rainy nights; and by day traveling leisurely through the fragrant hedgerows or over the windswept downs.

A writer in a recent number of the London Times has described this form of vacationing from the standpoint of a veteran "caravaner." He says: "Caravaning is not to be undertaken lightly by all. Caravaners are born, not made, and many of the people who say they would love it have no more idea of what it entails than they have of diving for coal. They think in their light-hearted way that it means a jovial holiday, with no servants, no rules, no method; nothing to do from morning to night. They never realize that even a vast there is responsibility. These are the people who talk largely about 'the simple life,' but who cannot throw themselves into every adventure with a school-boy's spirit of interest. When they find there is work to do they quickly tire, and shake the dust of caravaning (there is plenty of it) off their feet forever."

On advice, having selected his van, bad better first of all study weight, and a thoughtful man will remember that every ounce tells on his horses. No large boxes of stores should be taken—only the little things you really need should be bought as you go along; but a few things that must not be forgotten at the start are matches and some kind of a stove and a few foodstuffs, at least for your horse of oats and corn mixed. If he is the right sort of beast he will get his midday feed of grass and you will be able to turn him out at night in the summer. Earlier in the year he will want a shed, if not a stable, and a feed night and morning.

"It is not advisable to make horses do more than eighteen miles a day, and fifteen is better. As the average man horse walks at his best about three miles an hour, the caravaner must reckon at what time to start, if, with the necessary rest of an hour at midday, he wants to be comfortably settled—the horses out, the camp fire lit, foraging done and the kettle boiling by 4.30 o'clock, which is quite ideal."

"Forced trips, or matches, are not advisable. It spoils the spirit of the thing if you cannot linger in a charming spot. "There are some very light boxes folding quite flat when not in use, that are excellent for carrying clothes; portholes and heavy boxes are terrible white elephants. But remember that every ounce tells. A cold meal is best in the middle of the day. The right sort of vanner will have an eye as he goes along for the little things that matter. He will remember that he may not care at his journey's end, when fires have to be lighted at once and many things done, to go off to fetch the drinking water. Therefore, if wise, he will have provided himself with a wooden flagon or one of the cool pottery pots that can be had, and when he found good water filled them up. Then when he stops for the night the kettle can at once be filled and put on."

Mrs. Lizzie Warren and Mrs. Nerva Allen attended the Maine Federation of Women's clubs at Bath.

B. A. Hutchinson, the mail carrier, has been having a vacation and incidentally picking his apples.

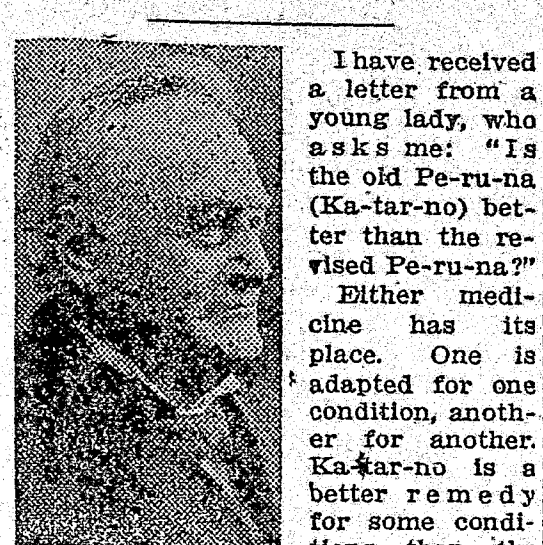

Benjamin Spaulding has returned from a visit to Caribou, accompanied by his brother, W. C. Spaulding.

Mrs. Fannie Haskell and Mrs. Helen Bartlett of Lynn, Mass., have been visiting their brother, Edgar Voss.

The change of time which occurred Monday, Sept. 30, on the railroad makes the rural carriers one hour later than the summer time.

Morrill and Cloutier have rebuilt their cooper shop, which was burned a short time ago, and they are making apple barrels as usual.

Pe-ru-na and Ka-tar-no

S. B. Hartman, M.D.

I have received a letter from a young lady, who asks me: "Is the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) better than the revised Pe-ru-na?"

Either medicine has its place. One is adapted for one condition, another for another. Ka-tar-no is a better remedy for some conditions than the revised Pe-ru-na.

On the other hand, the revised Pe-ru-na is a better remedy for some conditions than Ka-tar-no. They are both intended as catarrh remedies. They have both done a great work in relieving catarrh, chronic and acute. Many hundreds of cases of chronic catarrh have recovered while taking Ka-tar-no and the same is true of the revised Pe-ru-na during the last six years since its revision.

There is a difference, however, in the two remedies. Whenever catarrh is associated with constipation then the revised Pe-ru-na is the best. Indeed, this is exactly why the revision was made, to meet such cases. But where no laxative is needed, where the bowels are regular or inclined to be loose, then the old Pe-ru-na (Ka-tar-no) is the better remedy.

The revised Pe-ru-na is for sale at all drug stores. Those wishing to obtain Ka-tar-no, address The Ka-tar-no Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The Hired Man's Philosophy.

To increase your value to the organization is your serious duty. The greater the value becomes, the better the chance is for a raise in pay.

If you know your instructions are wrong or contrary to good judgment, go back after more. Some people are not credited with good judgment simply because they don't exercise it.

Don't guess, presume, or presuppose. If you don't know, then ask. Every time you take a chance you lose.

Pleasure is only a diversion from business, and if your personal affairs detract from the performance of your daily duty, make up your mind at once that your time is slipping, and flatwheel to the nearest garage for repairs.

Don't forget that some one else may finish the work you begin. If you start it intelligently, you are less liable to criticism.

The louder you knock, the less noise you will make with the boss. The quiet sane man who does things while others are wondering how they will be done, sometimes walks off with the prize when promotions are in order.

If a foggy intellect greets you on the dawn of the morning after, cut out the proceedings of the night before. Booze and poker never pay cash dividends.

If you know something is sliding through that shouldn't get by, you are just as liable as a receiver of stolen goods.

A case of emergency will sometimes reveal to you the latent talent which you did not know you possessed. Your only asset in life is your ability to produce. Make the asset sufficiently valuable to command the highest market price.

Watching the clock will never get you anything. If you were disposed to remain a few minutes after hours once in awhile the office might not be inclined to deduct for an occasional late arrival.

The boss isn't interested in your personal affairs, and you have fifteen hours outside of the office each day to talk them over. If this is not sufficient you can wait Sunday for that purpose.

You'll never ride to success over dead men's bodies, or hold down a good position on a bluff. You can do both of these things for a while, and get by, but when the fall comes your nerve is about all you have left. On the other hand, don't over-estimate your own value. The business prospered before you were connected with it, and it might do better after you go.

Always remember that the fellow who makes out the orders is only common clay, and liable to err. Every time you find a mistake, it's pretty good evidence that you are using your head.

If you try to do only as much as the man next to you, you'll never do enough. How do you know that he has a permanent place on the payroll?

Don't postpone a disagreeable task. Do it at once and have it over with. Wear and tear on your nerves depreciates your earning capacity.

Whatever you do, strive to do it better than someone else. Then when dull times strike, the boss will be less liable to do without you.

If you know of any way to improve the service or strengthen the organization, tell it. The brains of any institution are not always found under one hat.

If you don't believe in the organization and are working with a grouchy or a supposed grievance, get rid of it. If you cannot do this, then get rid of the job.

It's the duty of your department to keep the one next to it busy. If you succeed in crowding it, then you have contributed your share.

Don't forget that the destination of every manufactured product is toward the freight elevator for delivery. Every time you shove it along a notch, the date of the invoice is nearer.

Gilbert A. Russell of Auburn, Route 7, is to move to California, starting this week. His family will go with him. He may return in the spring.

Now Paint.
Strike when the iron is hot and paint when the property needs it.
They paint ships a dozen times a year; yes, some of them, every voyage. What for, do you think? To look nice and get business.
A livery keeps its carriages painted and varnished and washed, to look nice and get business.
A man with a house for sale or to let, "does it up," and Devoe is the paint.
There's more in paint than to keep out water. Paint for looks and you needn't think about water. A fresh coat of paint once a year is about as good for his credit as paying his debts. But the man whose buildings and fences look new, very likely, has no debts.

Care of the Girl in the Mirror.

The girl in the looking glass should be given a great deal of care. After all, she may be your best friend, and it is nobody's duty but yours to look after her. There is no greater mistake than to sit down and complain about her looks, for none of your friends is likely to be sufficiently self sacrificing to earn your everlasting ill-will by telling you just what is wrong with her face and figure and how to set it right. Now it is any use attempting to ignore the girl in the looking glass. If you think she is attractive it is unnatural not to want to pay her some attention; if you think she is ugly then you ought to study her case and see what can be done for her.

More discontent will never help, for it is the ugliest of all expressions. Grief and even physical pain—may intensify the beautiful lines of a face, but it is safe to say that Troy would not have fallen when it did if Helen had not been afflicted with the petty disorder of discontent.

A distant glance at the girl in the looking glass, just to see that her buttons are all on and her hairpins not sticking out, is not sufficient. You must take the glass to a window and look at her closely and keenly, so that not one of her blemishes escapes detection. Only by doing this can you make her your friend.

Perhaps she has been careless about using hot water for her ablutions without a cold dash afterward, and consequently almost her first thing you will notice about her is that her skin looks dull and that she has ugly enlarged pores. For these a simple and inexpensive reducing agent is camphor water, an astringent made by dissolving a quart of an ounce of borax and a half ounce of glycerine in a pint of camphor water. Apply the lotion with a piece of medicated cotton, wiping away any remaining portion gently to keep from irritating the skin. The first application removes the dirt from the pores, leaving them open to the second one, which cures and draws up the clean tissues to their normal size. This second application should sometimes be allowed to dry on the skin and remain on overnight.

Perhaps she had shabby eyelashes. Present her with a little box of cold cream or a lump of cocoa butter and insist on her applying some every night. The process soon becomes a habit and is no trouble at all. Even if luxuriant growth is not brought about the original lashes will look darker and more silky and the eyelids will never have that unhealthy scaly appearance.

Persuade the girl in the looking glass to smile at you often, so that you will know what neglected corners of her mouth she shows to the world in general. Many girls are more critical over the cleaning of dressing table silver than they are about their mouths.

A good idea is to rub a little dry charcoal powder into the crevices between the teeth on going to bed, and to brush it away in the morning. Charcoal absorbs all impurities, either solid or gaseous, leaving the teeth white and glistening and the gums clean and rosy. Any stray particles of charcoal that might be carried into the stomach would act as a detriment. Bicarbonate of soda (common soda) has much the same effect, being a benefit both to the teeth and to the stomach.

FORTUNES IN FACES.
There's often much truth in the saying "her face is her fortune," but it's never said where pimples, skin eruptions, blotches, or other blemishes disfigure it. Impure blood is back of them all, and shows the need of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They promote health and beauty. Try them. 25 cents at The Noyes Drug Store. Adv. 40-43

Hebron Academy and Bowdoin Second played to a 0-0 score in a football game, Saturday, on the Hebron gridiron. The greater part of the first and last periods the ball was in Bowdoin's territory, while in the second and third periods it was seen back and forth about the center of the field. During the contest, Stone, right half-back of the Bowdoin eleven, was injured, his left shoulder being dislocated.

Often The Kidneys Are

Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

COMFORTABLE OLD AGE
Now 85.
Mrs. John M. Foster of Pittsfield, Maine, says:—"Mr. Foster has used 'L. F.' Atwood's Medicine as his never-failing remedy for all ills, for the last ten, I might say twenty years, and received much benefit from the use of it. He is 85 years old and I am 80. If you begin to suffer from the effects of time and illness, profit from the experience of this worthy old couple. Take 'L. F.' Atwood's Medicine before it is too late, before disease becomes too fixed to be easily corrected and your health preserved."

35 cents for a large bottle at all good stores, or a sample free by mail.
